COMMENTS FROM THE PRESIDENT

Wow time sure fly's, it seems like only last week we were together in Chattanooga. Sign of old age I suppose. Thanks again to Bob and Barbara Zumwalt, John and Julie Barry, Ron and Ann Spearman and John and Carol Smith for a great rally.

Gail and I are doing fine and have been spending some time at our camp in the mountains. A beautiful black bear and her two cubs have been visiting us occasionally.

It was decided at our last meeting that we would make available a forth color shirt so that we would have a different color of each day of a rally. The new color is forest green. They will be available at the Charleston Rally. I, as VP, had assigned a color of shirt for each day of the week however I really see no need to do that. I am asking our current VP, as that's his duty to decide shirt color of the day, to only assign colors for the rally days which are Wednesday thru Saturday.

Mark your calendars for the DOAI National Rally to be held at Bethpage Camping Resort at Urbanna, VA, October 8th thru 12th. We have the responsibility for the goody bags and will need some help in putting them together. Immediately following that rally our Rally Master Richard Money is organizing a rolling rally from Bethpage to Charleston, SC, for our Chapter Rally which is October 16th thru the 20th. Please let Richard know as soon as possible if you plan to be a part of that rolling rally. Our hosts for the Charleston Rally, Paul and Cecily Hart, Mike and Ann Lechelop and Tom and Katy Leydic are in the process of planning a great rally. More details will be released later.

Zumwalt's go Upstate!

Our big trip of the year was to upstate New York. We saw a little bit of the Finger Lakes area about 10 years ago and have been anxious to return ever since. Along the way, we spent a week in Washington DC visiting family and a few days exploring Amish Country in Pennsylvania. Our planned route included stops in the Hudson River Valley Region, Lake George, The Villages at Turning Stone, and Watkins Glen in the Finger Lakes Region. Unfortunately, we had to cut our trip short and return home midway through our stay at Lake George. Our daughter, Amanda, is pregnant with twin boys and was hospitalized on full bed rest due to complications. She needed help as our son-in-law had his hands full taking care of their 17-month old son, his wife in a hospital 40 miles away, and running a small business.

Four days and 1100 miles later, we arrived home just in time to learn that Amanda was unexpectedly being released from the hospital. This was a surprise as she had been led to believe this would probably be for the long haul until the boys arrived. Nevertheless, this was good news, so we have been busy babysitting, running errands, and helping with the doctor visits. We will look forward to finishing our trip sometime in the next year or so.

One of our favorite memories was our visit to Amish Country. It was the most beautiful countryside and farmland we have ever seen. Everything was very green and extremely plush with flowers in bloom everywhere. We stayed at a really nice campground in Narvon, PA called Lake-In-Wood Resort. It is beautifully nestled in rolling hills and surrounded by Amish farms. We loved our stay there and would highly recommend this campground. Some of our pictures are posted here, if you would like to take a look and get a flavor for the area. (Courtesy Bob Zumwalt)

Lightening Beware!

On a recent trip to northern Ohio in the Amish country, we experienced something very unusual -- our motorhome and tow vehicle were both damaged by lightning. We had just arrived and got everything set up at the Evergreen RV Resort in Mt. Eaton, OH, when our campsite was struck by lightning. We heard a very loud boom and saw a huge ball of fire outside the window of our coach. The power went off, and as soon as the storm abated, Bill went out to check to see what had happened. That's when he discovered that the TV cable had blown completely off the campground's cable connection and the cable was fried, all the way to the connection on the coach. That was just the beginning -- he soon discovered that the surge protector he had installed a couple of years ago was blown to pieces! About that time, several people from the campground and adjoining RV's came over to see what had happened. Bill checked and found that all the breakers were tripped; he reset them and we began to check all our electrical appliances and outlets. We had several outlets that wouldn't work; our refrigerator wouldn't work on electricity, and our hot water heater was out. The control panel at the front of the coach was mostly non-functional. Our TV's worked, and we had a few outlets that were okay. We believe that if it had not been for the surge protector that we bought from Progressive Industries in North Carolina, everything in the coach would have been destroyed and possibly the coach set on fire. This is not the end of the story -- we later discovered that our truck, which was sitting on the campsite, was also damaged. After having to get it towed to a local shop and then on to the Nissan dealer in Canton, OH, we learned that the ECM (electronic control module) was fried; we've been told this is the starting point -- to get the ECM replaced (waiting on back-ordered part) and then determine if further damage occurred. Then, while we were waiting on the truck to be repaired, we found that the coach transmission's electronic controls had also been damaged. Thankfully, there was an Allison dealer in Canton, OH, that was able to replace the TCM (transmission control module) and get the coach in drivable condition. The staff at the Evergreen RV Resort were wonderful -- they assisted us in any way they could and did not charge us for the extra days we had to stay beyond what we had planned. We finally made it back to Georgia -- towed the truck behind the coach until we got to Tennessee, where we left the coach for repairs, and our son-in-law came with his truck and trailer and hauled us and the truck back to Rome, GA, where we left the truck for repairs. This was quite an adventure, but we're very grateful to all the kind people in Ohio who helped us, Progressive Industries for their surge protector and lifetime warranty, and that we or no one else was outside our coach when the lightning struck.

(Bill & Sandra McCain)

http://www.progressiveindustries.net/ssp_50.htm

The Smart Surge 240V/50A provides 5-mode, 1650 joules, and 45,000 amp surge current rating. The built in surge status indicator notes the condition of the surge protector.

SSP-50 Smart Surge Protector - Portable Unit for 50amp RV's

The dual line circuit tester checks for: Reverse Polarity, Open Neutral and Open Ground prior to use. Sleek, compact, portable design makes it easy to use. No installation required. Designed for outdoor use. Retail $132.00 Lifetime Warranty (Glenda)

Clearance Problems

For those of you (us) that have 2011 or newer Discovery's that have the front generator slide and have experienced difficulties with the front clearance due to the generator slide latch hanging too low here is the solution that was applied to my coach three weeks ago when I was in Decatur. The photos attached show the new "low profile" latch they installed. Should resolve all clearance problems!

(Bob Angus)

A boy & his toy!

Somehow in a moment of passion I started watching Ebay and Model A Ford pickup trucks last April. It was a game to dream about an A model that I had built with a friend in 1963-64. Then I started rationalizing how much fun it would be to own one now and so I bid.

Don't bid unless you are prepared to buy, the day I got the email that I had won I had immediate buyers remorse. What had I done! Well I had fulfilled a dream, that's what. So Anne and I hitched up the car hauler that we had taken to Alaska in 2006, and set out to the quad cities in Iowa and Illinois; Bettendorf, Davenport, Moline and Rock Island. It was a week long trek of 1700 miles with a visit to St. Louis to see my brother. When we pulled in to the St. Louis KOA to register the woman at the desk, said "do you have a car?" I said no, and she said "good because your trailer is empty!" Should have said yeah a Rolls Royce followed by "you mean it's missing!"

We got to Iowa on Thursday afternoon and got the second to the last pull through in a county park called West Lake Park in the Davenport city limits. It had water and electric, nice paved roads and sites and we were able to get the coach and the trailer off the grass and on the pavement. Met some nice locals who offered to drive us when and if we needed it. But I had already made a contact through the facsimile of the Iowa title with the previous owner to get the history of the truck. It was an estate sale, and the guy who was the current owner only owned it for 5 months before he died. His girlfriend wasn't able to tell me much at all about the car as they had only driven it twice when he got cancer and died. But the title had the previous guys name and address and I called him and found out that he would meet us at the campground and give us all the history on the truck. The original owner was a farmer in Bettendorf, Iowa. He used the truck to sell his veggies on the side of the road from 1930 to 1936. Then he parked it in a barn on his farm. When he and his wife had passed the family sold the farm and the contents at auction in the early 1990's. The truck was bought by a man who restored the roof and the cab wood and recovered the canvas roof with a vinyl one. He also re-did the interior at the same time. But he got cancer after three years of ownership and his brother bought the truck from the wife. He replaced the mechanical rod brakes with hydraulic ones from a 1946 Ford truck. Then in 2004, he wanted another old car and sold the truck to Randy the man I had contacted. Randy had the wood in the bed restored and the car painted and the gold stripe's put on. He also had the engine rebuilt with hardened valve seats so he could use unleaded gas and put a new radiator on it as well. He owned it and drove it from 2004 until selling in 2012. He was a really nice guy and only sold it to finance a 1929 two door sedan that he wanted.

All in all it was a fun week. The rain had raised the Mississippi 15 feet above flood level, and Davenport had a bunch of streets closed off that Saturday and it was to crest Sunday afternoon at 18 feet above flood level. We were glad to cross it head east and south for home!

Four Paws Kingdom

A Crazy Concept that Works

Imagine you are a loan officer in a bank and a couple walk in and tell you they want to open an RV park that excludes children but caters to dogs. Oh, and they also want to hold cooking classes. Really?

We just spent three days at the most remarkable place. I'm having trouble describing how very special this place is. The name of it is Four Paws Kingdom in Rutherfordton, NC. It's an RV park for adults with dogs. I would like to stress that unless you have a dislike for dogs, you would love this place even if you are traveling without one.

Currently there are 41 sites of various lengths and widths. We had a site that had a fenced-in deck adjoining a fenced-in yard. Anyone traveling with dogs know what a luxury that is! The sites are tucked in at various angles so you don't necessarily see your neighbors even though you may be close to them.

We were there for Father's Day and signed up for the breakfast owners Meik and Birgit Bartoschek cooked. Meik has worked around the world as a chef and it is obvious. Breakfast was served in the meeting hall which is a large open-air building. It reminded me of having breakfast at summer camp. You are encouraged to sit with other campers and you quickly become friends because you already have RVing and dogs in common.

There are four or five huge dog runs; one for small dogs, one for large dogs, one for all dogs, one for non-socialized dogs, and one for an agility workout. They even have a fenced-in spring-fed pond for both people and dogs. And you needn't worry if your dog gets dirty—they even have showers for dogs.

Birgit is a dog trainer and worked with Ivan and Bozo (for a fee, of course). She also had a free session open to anyone who wanted to learn how to begin to teach dogs tricks.

I beg you to go to their website and check out their scheduled events (<http://www.4pawskingdom.com/>). We are already signed up for the Asian cooking class.

Four Paws is not just an RV park; it's an experience. It's serene, peaceful, and incredibly friendly. Meik and Birgit have paired their passions into an enterprise that sounds crazy on paper but in reality is wonderful. I've never been on a retreat but I imagine it must be a lot like this place. We both came away feeling rested and refreshed. Anyone interested in Asian cooking?

Thanks to Carol Manley for this wonderful article. I look forward to the interesting information she is always willing to share.

ROLLING RALLY

BETHPAGE TO CHARLESTON

Glenn, Hank and Richard spoke about the Rolling Rally and agreed to spend two nights in Roanoke Rapids prior to our Discoverys Fall Rally. Folks should arrive on Sunday and spend a leisurely day. Monday, the Haden's will host time on the lake and a cookout in the afternoon. BYOB and donate funds to cover the cost of the cookout. On Tuesday, the group will make the 350 miles to Charleston. (Richard Money)

To join the "Rolling Rally" call Crossroads RV Park and make reservations for Oct 13 & 14 with departure on the 15th. Hank reserved 15 sites, but told them it could be a few more or a few less. We will receive a 10% discount so cost will be $34.65 credit card or $33.75 cash. Crossroads RV will hold the site with a credit card, but won't process it until 7 days prior to arrival. There is a 7 day cancellation policy with full refund. They also have a rally room with a kitchen if we want to use it.

The number for reservations is 252-538-9776 or www.RVRESORTATCC.com. Tell them you are with the Blue Ridge Discoverys group. They will have both Hank's and your name for questions. All sites are pull thru/50Amp/full hookups. Teresa is the POC at Crossroads RV. Hank will put together a list of things to do in his area, directions to the campground/area restaurants/Haden's Haven to be handed out at Urbana or he may email.

(Hank Haden)
